WELCOME

The luxurious Alcron Hotel Prague is located adjacent to Wenceslas Square, in the heart of the Prague's cultural, historical, shopping and business district.

HISTORY of ALCRON

The Alcron hotel was built by architect Alois Krofta in 1932 and became the first luxury hotel in Prague. In addition to the interesting architectural design and the very luxurious interior, the hotel featured state-of-the-art technology throughout. Most of it was designed by Krofta himself.

Almost overnight the hotel became a roaring success, welcoming the top echelons of society and politics through its doors.

The hotel's name was inspired by the ALCRON, a sailing vessel in Greek mythology. The ship eventually became the logo of the hotel and small replicas of the ship can still be seen today on the original fireplace grating located in the Alcron Restaurant.
