

Hotel Westminster

Rue de la Paix - Paris

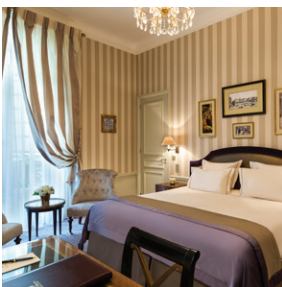

Quintessentially Paris...

THE HOTEL

While its name evokes the British aristocracy, Hôtel Westminster is a real jewel of a Parisian hotel, nestled behind the Haussmann-era façade of Rue de la Paix. Refined, chic and intimate, the hotel exudes French luxury and is the epitome of elegance in every detail, from its marble mantelpieces and drop beads to its authentic furniture.

Perfectly located amongst the prestigious addresses of the high fashion and jewellery district, the four-star Hotel Westminster is a stone's throw from the Place Vendôme, the Opera and the Tuileries gardens. For more than 200 years, the hotel has welcomed everyone from royalty - like the Duke of Westminster, from whom it takes its name - to those wanting to discover the art of living.

ACCOMMODATIONS

The hotel offers 102 ultra-comfortable rooms and suites steeped in history. All are meticulously decorated with brilliant crystal, stylish dressing tables, exquisite Toile de Jouy wall hangings and marble mantelpiece fireplaces. The hotel also boasts the "Signature Rooms & Suites", representing the ideal balance between modernity and the 200-year-old hotel in which they are located. They are resolutely contemporary, yet faithful to the long-standing tradition of luxury Parisian hotels.

DINING

Housed in Regency-style surroundings with modern touches, "Le Céladon" restaurant is something of a rarity in Paris, with the ambiance of a charming bourgeois dining room. Chef Ludovic Bonneville cooks exquisite cuisine made from carefully selected fresh products. The hotel also offers unrivalled charm and atmosphere at The Duke's Bar.

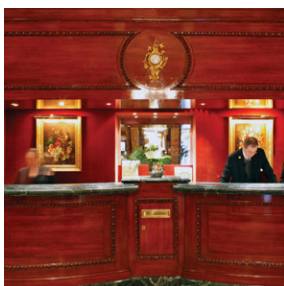

MEETINGS

Meetings, events or conferences, even private business meals and cocktail receptions, effortlessly succeed inside the five function rooms of Hôtel Westminster. Decorated in the style of Napoleon III, these custom-configurable rooms hold as many as 100 guests while being suitably equipped with an array of capabilities, including free Wi-Fi and delicious catering services provided by Chef Ludovic Bonneville, Le Céladon's Executive Chef.
