At a time, when travel has become mass when destinations are like a trophy cabinet when quantity shadows quality as you « do » Berlin, you « do » Paris and London, sometimes in just 2 days...

...The Hôtel du Louvre stands as a haven in the center of Paris where travelers can spend their time as they wish, experience the joy of missing out to reconnect with themselves and with others, just enough to become more receptive to their surroundings, as were artistic and intellectual previous guests Pissaro, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and Freud, as well as to immerse themselves in a typical Parisian atmosphere, create their own stories and inevitably...
