The 3 Buildings

MAIN BUILDING
(Duke of Loulé Palace)

Acquired in 1982, revamped and enlarged during 18 months. Duke of Loule Palace, also known as “the box of almonds”, was built in 1873 and was home to several royal families.

THE WHITE HOUSE BUILDING
Linked to the main building by an indoor passageway.

Bought in 2004 and inaugurated in 2005, the White House maintains its old facade. The natural solarium and garden were enlarged to provide even wider panoramic views. The penthouse duplex suite has the most embracing view.

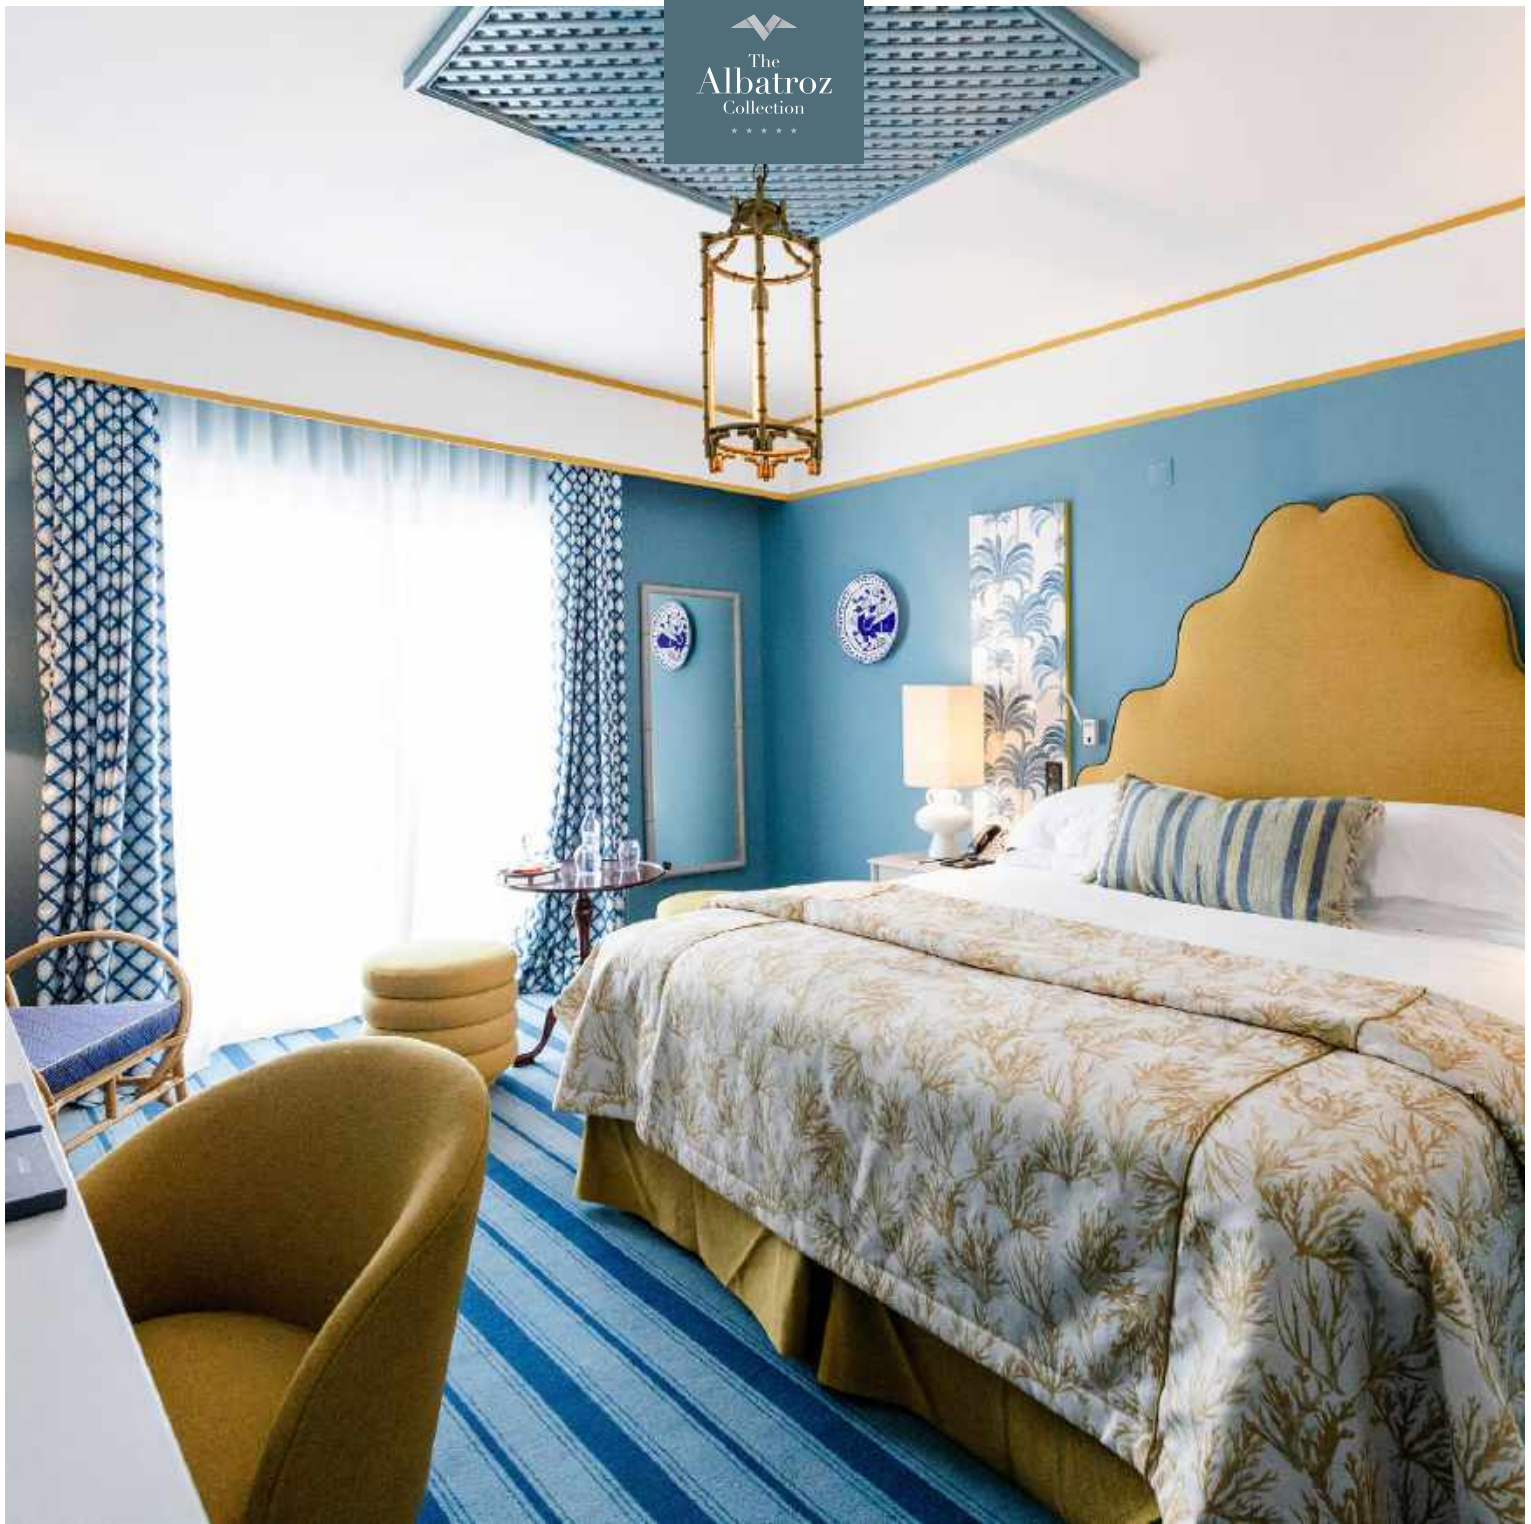

THE ALBATROZ PALACE
(House of D. António of Lancaster)

This 18th century house of Italian architecture, also known by the house of the yellow ceilings”, has a beautiful balcony with arches and columns facing the beach and the sea, which compose a true enchantment. It is part of the Hotel Albatroz since 2000.
