NH COLLECTION
COPENHAGEN

History

Open since September 2021, NH Collection Copenhagen is the debut of NH Hotel Group in Denmark. The five-star hotel brings together premium facilities, inspiring design and personalized service. The characteristic property stands as an architectural landmark at Knippelsbro and marks the entrance to Christianshavn and Amager districts. The visible location on Torvegade and the distinctive look of the building makes it almost impossible not to spot the hotel when you pass by.

The property was built in the years 1957-1962 by architect Palle Suenson as the headquarters and administration building for the shipyard B&W. The architecture was typical of the period when modernism drew the pure forms, straight lines and flat roofs.

During the period, new building materials were also added, such as steel, concrete and glass. Over time, the property has had various tenants and owners. Now a new chapter will be added to this extensive history, and while bringing a completely new design and function to the building, the past will also be celebrated.

Location

At an outstanding location directly to the harbour in the city life district of Christianhavn, this hotel is located close to Copenhagen's main landmarks and the city center shopping district. Christianshavn is one of the most visited and photographed areas of Copenhagen. The merchant's houses with their vivid colours, the sounds from the old oak sailboats, the smell of the sea and the green slopes of Volden is the vital nerv of this part of the city.
