It has three floors visible. The ground floor has large arched windows and a central entrance with a white door and a semi-circular transom. The second floor has rectangular windows with white frames and light-colored curtains. The third floor also has rectangular windows. The building is flanked by tall, fluted columns. A black wrought-iron fence runs along the front of the property. Small potted plants are placed on either side of the entrance steps. Case Study: Incentive for Global Pharma Company

A leading US based pharmaceutical firm brought nearly 800 top performers to Edinburgh over two 5-day waves, using over 400 hotel rooms across both hotels. The goal was to deliver a high-end incentive experience blending cultural immersion with recognition and relaxation. The result was two smooth visits with flawless logistics and excellent guest feedback.

Highlights

- Daytime excursions included: Royal Yacht Britannia, walking tours, golf, distilleries, and more.
- Evening events: Departmental dinners split across two historic venues Barnbogle Castle and Hopetoun House, with others dining at leisure given cash allowance. Plus a full-group gala dinner at the National Museum of Scotland.

Client Feedback

“The team were all impressed with what a great job your teams did at both hotels. We can’t thank you enough! We’ve passed on our feedback internally to other planners and hope to be back in Edinburgh one day and at one of your properties.”

Case Study: VIP Immersion for Global Drinks Brand

A leading global spirits company hosted 120 VIP guests in Edinburgh for a multi-day experience blending Scotch whisky storytelling with luxury hospitality and exclusive access. Following its success and subsequent smaller visits, they'll return in 2025 to host a global gathering of master mixologists, with a full buyout of Kimpton Charlotte Square, reaffirming confidence in both destination and our delivery.

Highlights

- InterContinental Edinburgh The George's grand King's Hall served as an elegant hub for the entire experience - with all meetings, sessions and hospitality working from here.
- Evening dining: One standout night featured an exclusive restaurant takeover of the stylish and delicious Le Petit Beefbar, while on the second evening they dined at a brand home.

Client Feedback

"The dedication, expertise and effort of the entire hotel team were key to the event's success. A special thank you to the operations team, whose attention to detail and flexibility were outstanding. The restaurant staff were equally impressive, warm, professional and consistently welcoming."
